The most serious wave of labor disputes since last Spring halted public transportation at Columbus,
O., today, threatened Pittsburgh with industrial collapse and tied up shipping in the second nationwide maritime strike within a month.A new strike threat arose in the motion picture industry, and a walkout of 2,000 employees at eight downtown hotels added to the troubles Pittsburgh was experiencing in the eighth day of its power strike.These were the major labor developments:1. The new shipping walkout began shortly after midnight when licensed maritime officers belonging to the CIO maritime engineers beneficial association left their ships in New York harbor.2. An estimated 60,000 workers were idle in Pittsburgh, many of them in steel and other heavy industries. Losses in business, industry and wages resulting from the power strike mounted toward $125,000,000.3. Motormen and bus drivers at Columbus struck at midnight, leaving many of the city's 300,000 persons without transportation.

CRIMES COURT ACQUITS THREE OF DEFENDANTS

Seven Given Sentences To Prison As Trial Of Nazi Regime Ends

the 21 Nazi leaders. Each entered the solemn court room singly, escorted by a guard. Each stood stiffly before the justices of France, Britain, Russia and the United States and heard his fate.

Few of the Nazis displayed any emotion as they were led in through a small door at the courtroom rear, stood a moment or two at the bar of world justice, heard their sentences and then were led silently back to their cells.

Goering was the first to stand before the tribunal. He was led in at 2:53 a. m. (7:53 a. m. EST). There was a moment of trouble when the earphones over which he was to hear the German translation of Lawrence's words failed. A guard fussed futilely with the headset then Lawrence impatiently motioned him away. Goering heard the verdict—in the Russian translation—but he was obviously certain what his fate was to be.

Hess, the No. 2 Nazi whose conduct throughout the trial has been erratic, brushed off the earphones and declined to listen to the translation. He was led away with no show of emotion.

Raeder Salutes

Grand Admiral Eric Raeder gave the court a stiff military salute after hearing himself condemned to spend the rest of his days in prison.

The sentences were imposed swiftly, each requiring only a minute or two with the guards shuttling steadily between the prison cells, bringing the defendants up by elevator and into the courtroom for what for many was their last appearance in public.

Less than an hour after Lawrence read the first verdict to Goering the ceremony was completed at 3:41 p. m. (8:41 a. m. EST) with the announcement by Lawrence of Russia's dissent from three of the verdicts.

Acquittal Surprise

The nature of the sentences had been foreshadowed clearly by the court in its morning session when it found 19 of the 22 defendants guilty and revived the charges against each. There was one surprise—the order that the death sentences against all 12 men be carried out by hanging. The Nazi military leaders had hoped that this indignity would be spared them and that they might face a military firing squad rather than the hangman's noose.

The sentences will be carried out by the allied military council in Berlin. All except Schacht, Von Papen and Fritzsche will be turned over immediately to the four-power council. It was assumed that all the convicted defendants will make pro forma appeals to the council but no change in the court's verdict was expected.

There was a possibility that Schacht, Von Papen and Fritzsche will be free men before nightfall. Arrangements for their release from the Nuremberg prison already were underway. However, Von Papen is wanted by Austria for trial as a war criminal there.

The brief Soviet dissent as read by Lawrence said:

"The Soviet member of the international tribunal desires to record his dissent in the cases of the defendants Schacht, Von Papen and Fritzsche. He is of the opinion they should be convicted and not acquitted. He also dissents in the decision with respect to the Reich cabinet and general staff and high command being of the opinion that they should have been declared criminal organizations."

"He also dissents on the sentence of the defendant Hess and is of the opinion that the sentence should have been death not life imprisonment."

Not a word was spoken by any of the defendants during their final courtroom appearance although Hess mumbled inarticulately.

The Nazis appeared to sense the solemnity of the hour. Julius Streicher, notorious Jew-baiter, who has industriously chewed gum for the last two days of the trial, apparently parked it outside before entering to hear Lawrence tell him that his sentence was to hang until dead.

Lawrence disdained the ordinary black cap which a British judge dons before handing down a sentence of death. To each defendant he gave the verdict in these words,

"THE SUPREME CRIME"--NUERNBERG

LORD JUSTICE SIR GEOFFREY LAWRENCE, foreground, reads the verdict of the four-power international military tribunal at Nuernberg, Germany, declaring, "To initiate war is not only an international crime, it is the supreme crime." When concluded, the 100,000-word judgment read by the presiding British, French, Russian and U. S. judges is expected to convict the 22 Nazi ringleaders, who have been on trial the last 10 months, of conspiring to commit that crime. This is a radiophoto.

NAVY AIRPLANE TRAVELS 11,822 MILES ON TRIP

(Continued from Page One) through the dawn after crossing the coast north of San Francisco shortly before 12:30 a. m., EST, and after fears for safety of the flight had arisen out of long radio silence last night.

The Turtle's arrival over the west coast ended more than 12 hours of radio silence which led to growing fears that it had been forced down in the lonely stretches of the Pacific between Midway Island and its original west coast goal, Seattle, Wash.

The last heard from the plane yesterday was a brief message at 10:15 a. m., EST, which placed its position at 550 miles southeast of Midway.

In the agonizing hours of silence that followed, wives of the crew members who were gathered in Washington awaited tensely as radio operators skinned their dials for a further report. They heard only the crackling of a gigantic thunderstorm.

Finally, shortly after last midnight, the wives heard a foreboding announcement: the commander-in-chief of naval forces in the Pacific had ordered the western sea frontier to begin a search for the plane—"make every contact and advise."

But only moments later, at 12:09 a. m. EST a radio operator at Paine field, near Everett, Wash., picked up a weak message from the Turtle. It said it had turned on a southerly course while at sea to avoid storms and was then 75 miles off the west coast north of San Francisco.

The first radio voice contact with the plane was made with the Alameda, Calif., naval air station, across the bay from San Francisco. It was then that the unidentified crew member yelled his triumphant message "this is the first airplane ever to fly nonstop from Australia to the United States."

At 1:38 a. m. (EST) the Turtle passed north of the Williams, Calif., radio range and was cleared to Reno, Nev., on the southwest leg of the Donner radio range, seeking to ride the beam through that opening of the high Sierras.

Board the Lockheed built plane, which left Perth at 5:10 a. m. EST Sunday, were Cmdr. Thomas C. Davies of Cleveland, O.; Cmdr. W. S. Reid, Washington, D. C.; Lt. Cmdr. R. H. Taveling, Jacksonville, Fla.; and Cmdr. E. P. Rankin, Sapulpa, Okla.

Davies was listed as the chief pilot but his three crewmen were experienced pilots and took turns at the controls.

When the plane made its jet-assisted takeoff from Perth, it was known to have been carrying 8,000 gallons of gasoline. The Turtle's sister ships, under normal conditions, carry only 2,350 gallons of gasoline at takeoff.

In order to conserve fuel, the plane throughout the first 40 hours of the flight had its two 2,500 horsepower engines throttled well back and maintained an average speed of around 200 miles-an-hour.

At the same time OPA increased the prices of the following crude vegetable oils by one and three-fourths cents: refined cottonseed oil, peanut oil, soybean oil, and corn oil. This action was taken on the recommendation of agriculture.

OPA also raised the prices of soybeans, oranges, and cotton linters below the retail level, but did not expect these actions would result in higher prices to consumers.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson failed to take meat off the agriculture "short supply" list for October, thereby ending hopes that meat might be decontrolled in this manner.

Any commodity not on the list is automatically freed from controls.

Industry and government officials appeared agreed that the present shortage of meat will last for several weeks more. Chairman Roy L. Thompson of the decontrol board and the American Meat Institute both predicted it would be another year before meat is in good enough supply to satisfy all demand.

NEW WAVE OF STRIKES HITS UNITED STATES

4. A strike against major Hollywood film companies continued, while independent producers were threatened with walkouts by the AFL International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees.

In the shipping strike, negotiations were continuing both at Washington and at San Francisco. But the contracts of three maritime unions—the CIO Marine Engineers, the CIO Longshoremen, and the AFL Masters, Mates and Pilots—expired at midnight last night.

Government conciliators at Washington had hoped to avert the strike by negotiating new contracts between east coast and gulf shippers and the Marine Engineers' and the Masters, Mates and Pilots. The two unions, however, refused to settle with east coast and Gulf employers without a settlement with west coast shipowners.

In another shipping dispute, spokesmen for the CIO longshoremen said negotiations at San Francisco had made progress and would continue. But when 1,000 Marine engineers walked out in New York, the longshoremen announced that they, too, were "officially on strike."

Negotiations in the Columbus transportation strike were continuing at the request of a federal conciliator, but thousands of persons were forced to walk or hitchhike to work today. John J. Ryan, international

WHEAT MAY BE SEEDED HERE UNTIL NOV. 1

Ohio State Agronomist Gives
Tips On Late Planting
Of Wheat In Area

Farmers with late maturing corn and soybeans are beginning to question how late wheat can be sown without suffering a serious loss in yield.

D. F. Beard, extension agronomist, Ohio State University, gives this advice:

"As a general rule, the long-time average acre yield of wheat drops 2 to 3 bushels each week that it is sown after the fly-free date. The fly-free date in Pickaway County is October 2. At the yield levels obtained in Ohio experiments, the weekly drop amounts to 8-10% of the maximum yield obtained from sowing on the fly-free date.

"When wheat seeding must be delayed, it is wise to: 1. Apply more fertilizer per acre and 2. Increase the rate of seeding.

"At least 300 pounds of fertilizer per acre, and preferably 400-500 pounds, can be profitably applied with late sown wheat.

"A seeding rate of 10 pecks per acre has given 1 to 3 bushels to the acre higher yields than the standard 8 peck rate with late dates of seeding.

"How late can wheat be sown? Experimental work along this line supplies a good answer up to November 1, after which reliable data are lacking. Apply the general rule given above up to that date and you'll likely find that seedlings made thereafter will promise a very unprofitable yield.

"While these results represent average findings, it is well to keep in mind that complete failures are to be expected from late seedings some years, and near optimum yields in others. The 1946 harvest was a good example of the latter."

CARS REPORTED SOLD IN MEXICO AT BIG PRICES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 — A Mexican police official said today U. S. automobile black marketers were making a "double killing" by selling cars south of the border at fantastic prices and then reporting them stolen to collect insurance.

Major Robert G. Martinez, chief of police in the Mexican state of Chihuahua, said American insurance companies were the heavy losers in the new racket.

"They drive cars down into Mexico and sell them and then they return to the States and report the cars stolen," Martinez said. "Then they collect the insurance in addition to having already gotten more for the car down there than they could under OPA in the States."

The 42-year-old major is attending the 33rd session of the FBI national academy for instruction in the latest methods of crime detection and prevention. He has been chief of state police for Chihuahua since 1944.

Martinez said the car racket was "very embarrassing to the police of my country." He said everything possible was being done to halt the racket.

FIRST PLAYOFF GAME ON TODAY IN ST. LOUIS

Cards Slight Favorites In First Postseason Series In Baseball History

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 1—Neither the St. Louis Cardinals nor Brooklyn Dodgers showed any cockiness as they prepared to meet today in the first post-season pennant playoff in history, and Card manager Eddie Dyer frankly admitted he expected the playoff to go the full three games.

Dyer said his pitching choice for today's opener would not be made until just before game-time, when Howie Pollet, the only 20-game winner in the National League, has tried a few warmup pitches and can tell if a pulled muscle in his left shoulder—his throwing shoulder—will permit him to hurl. If not, little Murry Dickson, a righthander with a 14-6 record, will pitch.

Ralph Branca, a six-foot-three-inch righthander, was Dodger Manager Leo Durocher's choice. Branca is well-rested, and Durocher hoped the young former New York University star would equal the three-hit 5 to 0 victory he scored in the final regular-season game between the Bums and Birds.

The Cardinals were rated in betting odds announced by Jimmy Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner, as 13-to-20 favorites to win the series. New York bookmakers favored St. Louis in today's game at odds of 8 to 5.

Dyer apparently made his prediction of a three-game series on the strength of his confidence in Harry Brecheen, the seasoned lefty who won the only game the Cards took from the Cubs in the season-closing three-game series. Brecheen probably will start the second playoff game, scheduled for Brooklyn on Thursday.

Hurlers notwithstanding, the post-season spectacle of the Cardinals and the Dodgers trying on the National League crown for size is expected to draw the biggest crowd of the year to Sportsman's park. The weatherman offered an assist—the promise of real baseball weather, with bright skies and the temperature around 75 or above.

Cardinal fans are fighting for a chance to see their Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde darlings in action.

They watched the Cards conquer the third place Chicago Cubs and the neck-and-neck Dodgers all season to hold a 14-8 mark over each. That was when the boys were playing Jekyll.

But Mr. Hyde appeared and the Birds failed dismally against the cellar dwelling New York Giants and the other second division flotsam and against the Cubs in the pinch.

It was up one day and down the next.

The Cards backed into this overtime extravaganza when they dropped all-important final game to the Cubs while the Brooks, tied for first, failed to knock off the Boston Braves. It was this situation that prompted the plaintive remark of standee in the long ticket line at the ball park.

"You'd think," he sighed, "that both the Cards and the Bums were afraid to play the Red Sox."

SLEEPY FANS TO SEE SERIES IN BOSTON PARK

BOSTON, Oct. 1—The 1946 World Series games at Fenway park may have to furnish a thrill a minute if groggy and sleepless fans are to be kept awake, it appears today.

Postponement of the series brought a shower of telegrams and letters yesterday requesting changes in room reservations to Boston hotels but the change in dates coupled with already crowded hotel conditions indicated that many ticket holders would have to sleep in their cars or on park benches.

"I'd need a crystal ball to be able to change these reservations," said Manager Glenwood J. Sherrard of the Parker House. "Even Baseball Commissioner Chandler doesn't know when the series will open in Boston. How do they expect me to know?"

Frank Hanley of the Hotel Bradford said he was trying to shift reservations on the basis of an Oct. 8 opening, but he stressed that some fans were slated for disappointment.

BIXLER PICKS FLYING SQUAD

OSU Coach Faced With Big Problem Selecting Teams For Long Trip

COLUMBUS, Oct. 1—Coach Paul Bixler, the Missouri (Ohio State 13—Missouri 13, and let's not say any more about it, please) game wrapped up and put on the shelf, today had a new problem—which of his Ohio State grididers to take on the Southern California trip.

The Missouri game showed up plenty of flaws in the Ohio State football machine and also showed that some of the players originally rated on the top three teams might have to move over for some of the scrubs.

The squad for the flight to Los Angeles will be limited to 36, and selection of those three dozen men occupied a part of yesterday's practice session.

Bixler post-mortem the Missouri tie with press and radio men yesterday, after he had seen pictures of the game.

The 15-yard penalties that twice cost the Bucks probable touchdowns were the result of faulty cadence in the quarterbacks' signal-calling, the Ohio State coach explained.

The backs were unable to shift into their second positions in the time given them by the impatient signal-callers, and the result was an illegal shift that Bixler said was called correctly by officials each time.

Contrary to some opinions, the Ohio State blocking was good, except on occasion in the late stages of the game when heat and exhaustion took their toll.

The Ohio State coach said one problem lay in getting the quarterback to use a more diversified offense, which he thought was essential against the heavier lines the Buckeyes will meet in almost every remaining game.

Assistant coach Carroll Widodo took the floor and gave the lowdown on the Southern California team he watched beat Washington State, 13-7. He described it as a team with a heavy, solid line and tremendous backfield speed.

Only center Tony Adame came out of the Missouri game with a serious injury. He received a bruised hip that might keep him idle this week.

The Wisconsin conservation department has warned outdoorsmen: "One tree will make a million matches, but one match can destroy a million trees."

Who play the Red Sox here this week were more fortunate in finding sleeping space. The Hotel Kenmore, series headquarters for the National League team, officials, and sports writers, will assign the rooms originally reserved for the visiting pennant winners to the all-star club.

SCIENTIST IN WARNING ABOUT WORLD EVENTS

"Combat in Peacetime" Topic of Dr. Pyle At Kiwanis Club Meeting

"Combat in Peacetime" was the subject of an interesting talk given Monday evening at the Kiwanis club meeting by Dr. W. R. Pyle, professor of physics at Wittenberg college.

"We are engaged in a mortal combat with communism and atheism arrayed against capitalistic democracy and Christianity", Dr. Pyle who served for three years in the radar division at Wright Field, said.

Dr. Pyle pointed to the great strides made by science during the war and declared "we have extended our scientific I. Q. until we hardly know what to do with it. Unless we put it to the right use there will be a third world war which could destroy us."

Discussing the problem as a scientist, Dr. Pyle stated that we must work for our form of government or lose it. Only in a country like ours can science make strides it has, he said. Russia will copy our atom bomb and other developments but the Russians have little initiative under the Communistic setup, Dr. Pyle stated.

He urged every person to "talk, write, vote and live for capitalistic democracy and Christianity. Every person has a chance to avoid another war and make our democracy work. We must prevent self-sabotage of our form of government. United States must remain a strong military nation and enlist the support of two-thirds of the nations of the world in order to assure peace. Military strength alone is not enough. We must prove our democracy is the best form of government".

Dr. Pyle dwelt extensively on the developments of radar, "one of least destructive scientific developments". He declared "we have constructed a Frankenstein monster which can destroy us if we do not use it right".

Dr. Pyle was introduced by Dr. W. L. Sprouse.

Guests at the meeting were Ernie Beckwith, Harold Staley, Dr. Ray, Harold Thayer, Harry Herdman and Dr. Carlton Shank, all of Lancaster; Wendell K. Love, Stoutsville; Dan McLean, Chillicothe, and Paul Rodenfels.

RESCUE MISSION TO LOLO AREA MEETS DELAY

SHANGHAI, Oct. 1.—The departure of a rescue mission seeking five or more Americans reported enslaved by Lolo tribesmen in western China was delayed today by trouble in gathering a ransom for their release.

An Army plane had been scheduled to leave today to set up a rescue base at Hsichang, on the rim of the wild Lolo country. Lt. Col. Herbert W. Wurtzler of Minneapolis, head of the mission, said all plans would be completed for an early morning takeoff tomorrow. Wurtzler said a week or more probably would be required for any answer from the Lolas to preliminary feelers for terms on which they would surrender the captives.

HOTEL STRIKE ADDS TO MESS IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 1—A walkout of 2,000 service employees at eight major hotels added further confusion today in Pittsburgh where industry and commerce have been crippled by an eight-day-old strike of 3,500 employees of the Duquesne Light company.

The hotel workers walked out to enforce demands for a 40-hour week with the same rate of pay as the present 48 hours, time and one half for overtime.

The hotels offered an increase of $15.25 weekly for women and $16.64 for men who do not receive tips and half that amount for those who receive tips.

Tens of thousands of workers in heavy industries were idled by the power strike which has tied up transportation. Steel mills, which furnish their own electricity and were not affected by the power strike, were hampered by the transportation tie-up which kept thousands of workers from their jobs.

Mayor David L. Lawrence alerted the city's former air raid wardens last night and urged them to patrol the streets to warn consumers to cut down on their use of electricity and water.

The water supply of the city will be cut off if the strike succeeds in crippling power facilities completely, the mayor warned.

Negotiations to settle the dispute were deadlocked.

BRIDE OF THREE MONTHS FILES SUIT FOR DIVORCE

KOREAN CAPITAL FACES WATER AND POWER TIEUP

Mrs. Geneva Tarbill Grubb, Circleville bride of three months, filed suit for divorce Tuesday in Pickaway county common pleas court, accusing Calvin Grubb, Route 7, Chillicothe, of gross neglect of duty.

Declaring that they were married June 30, 1946 in Circleville, Mrs. Grubb claims her husband has worked only one month since the wedding, that he refuses to find employment, and that she was compelled to continue her employment to support him and his mother. She also asks that she be restored to her former name, Geneva Tarbill.

The hotel workers walked out to enforce demands for a 40-hour week with the same rate of pay as the present 48 hours, time and one half for overtime.

HORSE AND WAGON FOLLIES

EAST LIVERPOOL, O.—Clarance M. Flowers escaped a driver's license revocation — because he doesn't have one—but Squire John Talbot in nearby Newell, W. The water supply of the city will be cut off if the strike succeeds in crippling power facilities completely, the mayor warned.

Negotiations to settle the dispute were deadlocked.

Report Urges Intelligence System As First Line Of U. S. Defense

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—A special congressional committee said today the nation must have as its first line of defense a world-wide intelligence system capable of gauging the "strength and weaknesses, the capabilities and plans of foreign powers."

H. Ralph Burton, counsel for the house military affairs investigating committee said in a report that it was gratifying President Truman had issued a directive to coordinate existing intelligence services.

Burton said it was also gratifying that the people as well as government officials were aware of the "inestimable value of sound and timely intelligence."

"Given the proper cooperation and legislative backing," he said, "this country would never again be caught off guard."

Burton's statements were made in a report advising committee chairman Andrew J. May, D., Ky., of the investigating group's current activities.

Burton revealed the committee, under special arrangements with the Army, sent an investigator to Germany early in August to study the problems of military occupation and civil government.

An investigation also is being made of Army Air Forces industrial mobilization planning and improvement. Burton told May, to determine whether the Army's "approach is realistic and practical."

Burton said $14,500,000 was made available for the program during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, and unless it is wisely used, "the congress and the American public can be lulled into a false sense of security."

May also was advised by Burton that the investigating committee is continuing its study of the Army courts martial system and that a full report will be available at a later date. Recently, the committee made public a series of 16 recommended changes in the courts martial system.

BERLIN, Oct. 1—Gen. Dwight Eisenhower left by plane today for Prestwick, Scotland, for a week's rest. He was accompanied by his wife and son, Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, and two aides.

SWEDEN'S TRADE

LITTLE Sweden, which preserved a difficult neutrality by shipping ball bearings and other essentials to Hitler's Reich while at the same time caring for thousands of Allied refugees, continues to worry western powers. She is concluding a five-year priority pact with Russia for machinery, motors and electrical equipment, in return for much-needed coal from Soviet-controlled Poland.

The United States objected, on the grounds that world trade should be kept fluid. Negotiations already under way for American coal shipments to the Scandinavian nation were halted. Sweden, apparently surprised at the objection, has indicated that she will stand by the Russian agreement.

There are a number of reasons for her decision, but probably one of the biggest is fear. The grasping paws of the Russian bear are uncomfortably close, and the recent mysterious rocket flights across her skies serve to emphasize their nearness. A second factor is Sweden's need for the Russian-controlled Polish coal. Yet a third is the necessity for an export market to replace ones recently lost.

It is probable that, given freedom from fear for her very existence, Sweden would be more independent in her trading policies.

THEY KNOW

L. Col. Ralph J. Smith of San Antonio, Texas, returned the other day with the Third Division after six years of war and participation in eight campaigns as an Army chaplain.

Here is a man who will understand that those whom the war has scared cannot resume church going where they left off before. A great deal is being written in the religious press about the need to bring the world back to Christianity.

This chaplain is the type of person who will know it must be a revitalized Christianity for a world aching from the deadliest war of all time, a war largely fought by Christians, or at least people born in so-called Christianized countries. The church will do well to listen to the men who have been there.

BRITISH BLACK MARKET

BLACK market operations are seriously interfering with British new housing as well as our own.

If the law-abiding English are engaged in bootlegging of building materials, evidently the United States has company. Apparently there may be more to the problem than the easy solution of letting prices go sky-high.

The nation needs more rousing for housing.

Capital News... By Frederick C. Othman

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—Jim Moran announces from his Hollywood, Calif., headquarters that he is campaigning for a seat in the U. S. Senate. The Jim Moran, who sits on ostrich eggs until they hatch.

I am afraid he will win. He always does. This is a pity. I know. The senator is a friend of mine. I would live longer if he weren't.

Sen. Moran is running on the slogan: What this country needs is a good five cents. Period. Fellow citizens, when he begins making our laws, look out. Better yet, flee.

You may remember when the senator (secretly subsidized by the Icyfreeze Ice Box company) made his widely publicized trip to Alaska to sell a refrigerator to an Eskimo. This brought chuckles to a nation unsuspecting that his ambitions reached to the senate, itself.

The senator returned to the mainland with a pedigreed Alaskan flea and 100 pounds of ice that he personally had chopped from the living heart of an Alaskan glacier. This ice, he said, was a billion years old, harder and colder than any other ice

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1—A Methodist preacher has wired me he considered my last column on religion as the best thing he has read on the subject in 25 years, and there have been other encouraging responses, suggesting that the need for preservation of unity among Christian peoples in certain common principles is essential.

But one complainant, the only one, has started an attack upon me personally in the papers, challenging me to produce proof of my assertion that religion was not free under the Russian system of government. He is quite abusive not only of me, but of my newspapers around the country. The job of full investigation of the complete factual condition of the churches under the Russian system today, should be investigated by authorities with greater facilities than a columnist, and made known to all the people with assured and authenticated accuracy concerning every detail, because we must not be misled into dividing our Christian sects in foolish squabbles which weaken our cause.

Considerable evidence has been obtained by a congressman, Representative Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, through the legislative reference service of the library of congress, which is certainly a nonsectarian and non-political institution, with indisputable reputation for factual presentation. Mr. Dirksen said he was returning from a speech at which he found himself unable to present the facts and asked the library of congress to dig them up and he has presented them in a booklet of the U. S. government printing office entitled: "Communism In Action". The conclusion of this report is naturally that while a semblance of some change toward church freedom has been provided by the Russian authorities, the very existence of the dictatorship makes the church subservient to the state—in short, that a thin pose of religious freedom does not bear basic actuality. The number of orthodox churches, for instance, declined from 46,400 in 1917 to 4,225 in 1941. While the latest figure on the number of churches opened since then has not been obtained through the Russian censorship, permits were allowed, for instance, for the re-opening of ten theological seminaries by August 1, 1945. Also, the church may now print materials for use in its services and may "order any quantity of testaments, prayer books", etc. Permission has been granted the patriarch to initiate efforts toward unification of that church at home and abroad. Indeed, at one point the report says: "the state was obviously ready to meet religious revival halfway", in connection with the election of a new patriarch.

Now these things simply do not constitute religious freedom. If a church must get permission from the government to do this or that, it is clearly not free to act. And I think a fair judgment of the whole religion portion of the report would lead any objective reader to conclude that the communist state has made concessions for either domestic or international political purposes.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SHARING THE BLAME

PARTNERS have plenty of difficulty to agree on which is to blame when the declarer makes a contract which could have been beaten by perfect defense. From one player's standpoint, the fault was entirely in something his partner did, or failed to do. And from the post across the table the same attitude prevails. Often even an unbiased kibitzer finds it hard to decide which is right and which wrong, or whether both are right or wrong in what they did.

Capt. Jack Catherine

Ceremony Is Read In Sacramento, California

Miss Catherine Helen Keefe, Sacramento, California, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Keefe, Fowler, Ind., became the bride of Captain John H. Foresman, McClellan Field, North Sacramento, California, son of Mrs. Anna Foresman, East Main street.

The ceremony was performed September 21 in St. Joseph's Catholic church, Sacramento, Calif., by the Rev. Father McGarry.

For her marriage the bride wore a white satin gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and fitted bodice. The flowing skirt was trimmed in lace. Miss Keefe wore pearl earrings and a pearl necklace. Her finger tip length veil hung from a lace cap and in her arms she carried a bridal bouquet of gardenias.

Patricia Keefe, sister of the bride, Fowler, Ind., who served as maid of honor, wore a pale blue silk gown with short puffed sleeves, styled with a sweetheart neckline. She had pale pink flowers in her hair and carried an arm bouquet of pink carnations and blue delphinium. For jewelry she wore a pearl necklace and pearl earrings.

Colonel Bernard M. Wotton served as best man for Captain Foresman and Captain George W. Armstrong, and Warrant Officer James Young seated the guests.

For the occasion the altar was decorated with white gladioli. A period of wedding music preceded the ceremony.

Following the wedding a breakfast was served in Palm Court of Senator hotel, Sacramento. The horse shoe shaped tables were decorated with white roses and gardenias and centered with a three tiered wedding cake.

Mrs. Keefe, mother of the bride, wore a black dress suit with a corsage of deep pink roses. Her accessories were of black and white.

Mrs. Foresman was attired in a black suit and pinned to her shoulder was a corsage of pink rose buds. Her costume was accented by accessories of black and fall mist.

Following the reception Captain and Mrs. Foresman left for a wedding trip to Carmel By the Sea. For traveling the bride wore a pastel blue wool dress with brown accessories.

Mrs. Foresman was graduated from Freeland Park, Ind., high school and St. Elizabeth Nurses school, Lafayette, Ind. She served for 15 months as an Army nurse.

Captain Foresman is a graduate of Circleville high school. He is stationed with the Army at McClellan Field. The newly weds will make their home at 800 17th street, Sacramento, California.

Mrs. Foresman has returned home after attending her son's wedding.
